

Wines by the glass

White

2. Piesporter Michelsberg 2016 Mosel
Typically light and unassuming wine from this well-known village, crisp, but with typically grapey character.
125ml £4.90 / 175ml £6.00
15. Chateau Septy 2014 A.C.F.B. (Cave de Monbazillac)
Less cloying than some of the heavier dessert wines from Sauternes. Pale buttercup gold; light barley sugar nose with floral notes; intense sweet fruit on the palate, with excellent length and pleasant fruity acidity on the finish.
125ml £6.00 / 175ml £7.50
18. Château Boudigand 2017. C.B. (Comte de Bosredon)
I have rarely been impressed by the white wines of the Appellation, but this wine is a knock out. Fine gold colour; plenty of semillon on the nose; wonderfully focussed and sprightly fruit on the palate. Balanced, delicious and great value.
125ml £5.50 / 175ml £6.50
70. Pinot Grigio delle Venezie 2017 I.G.T. (Cecilia Beretta)
A grape variety which can often appear a bit dull and one dimensional; but this is a most pleasing example at a very good price. Medium gold colour; appealing grapey, almost Muscat-y nose; fine concentrated zippy fruit on the palate.
125ml £5.30 / 175ml £6.50

House White

Apaltagua Gran Verano Chardonnay 2015. E.B. Central Valley, Chile
125ml £4.50 / 175ml £5.50

Apaltagua Gran Verano Sauvignon Blanc 2019. E.B. Central Valley, Chile

Prosecco Piccolo Extra Dry
200ml bottle £6.50

Rosé

57. Rosé Les Oliviers 2017 Domaine de Montaubéron. Vin de Pays Côtes de Thongue. D.B. (de Berlier)
Provence is in many ways the spiritual home of rosé, and this is a distinctly classy example, made from 100% Syrah, and exhibiting none of the dispiriting flabbiness so often encountered. Deep salmon pink in colour; ripe floral fruit on the nose; good assertive fruit on the palate, wonderfully clean-limbed, and with great balance and length.
125ml £5.10 / 175ml £6.30

Red

59. Merlot Domaine St Estève 2017. Vin de Pays d'Oc.
Typically robust and gutsy merlot from provence. Big, purple-tinged colour, ripe and concentrated fruit on the nose and palate. Uncomplicated, but with enough acidity and soft tannin to avoid jamminess.
125ml £5.00 / 175ml £6.10
75. Rioja Belezos 2015 D.O.C. Estate Bottled (Bodegas Zugober)
Nice and juicy uncomplicated Rioja. Good deep scarlet just maturing at the rim; healthy plum-and-cassis fruit on the nose; good gutsy Tempranillo character on the palate, with nice oaky notes.
125ml £5.40 / 175ml £6.70
81. Agua Santa Pinot Noir 2018 Edwards Family Vineyards Colchagua Costa
Much more Burgundian in style than many American Pinots, lacking the pronounced raspberry notes so often encountered. Clear pale garnet in colour; modest but elegant Pinot on the nose; good sustained well-structured fruit on the palate, with plenty of acidity and good balance. It could easily have come from the Côtes de Beaune.
125ml £5.60 / 175ml £6.80
86. The Southerly Shiraz 2016 S. E. Australia
I have not in general been a great admirer of Australian Shiraz, which seems all too often to want to bludgeon the drinker into submission. This example thus came as a pleasant surprise. Bright cherry colour; plum and spice on the nose, with a hint of plum kernels; uncomplicated juicy fruit on the palate, soft, appealing, well-balanced.
125ml £4.80 / 175ml £5.90

House Red

Apaltagua Gran Verano Cabernet Sauvignon 2019 E.B. Central Valley, Chile
125ml £4.50 / 175ml £5.50

Half Bottles

6. Oestrich Lenchen Riesling Auslese 2003. Rheingau Q.m.P. (Peter Jakob Kühn)
The dramatically hot summer of 2003 produced many atypical wines. The Rieslings of northern Europe tended to be sweeter and lusher than usual. This Auslese has easily the weight and sweetness to qualify as a Beerenauslese in more normal vintages. Extraordinary deep old gold – almost tawny – colour; barley sugar, orange blossom, and acacia on the nose; intense palate of honey, candied peel, highlighted with delicate acidity throughout the impressively long palate.
½ bottle £36.00
15. Château Septy 2014 A.C.F.B. (Cave de Monbazillac)
Less cloying than some of the heavier dessert wines from Sauternes. Pale buttercup gold; light barley sugar nose with floral notes; intense sweet fruit on the palate, with excellent length and pleasant fruity acidity on the finish.
½ Bottle £15.50
16. Château Rieussec 2007 C.B. 1ier Grand Cru. Sauternes
The super-hot summer of 2003 tended to produce lush, forward wines, and this is no exception. Deep gold colour; huge ripe fruit on nose and palate, with great intensity and length. This celebrated property has – again – produced a stunning wine.
½ bottle £32.00
19. Château Carignon 2015 C.B. (Clench) Côtes de Bordeaux Cadillac
Hotter summers and ever more scrupulous wine-making have resulted in much more dependably fine wine coming from the satellite appellations in Bordeaux. This blend of 70% Merlot, 20% Cabernet Sauvignon and 10% Cabernet Franc is approachable and delicious. Solid crimson/garnet colour; healthy Merlot fruit on the nose; satisfying juicy palate, foursquare but with fair background acidity and a touch of residual tannin. Fantastic value.
½ bottle £14.00
25. Château de Fieuzal 2000 C.B Pessac
This old favourite produces classic silky Graves. From the wonderful 2000 vintage is fully mature; fine deep colour with tawny rim; exuberant Cabernet-dominant fruit on the nose, with cedary well-developed secondary characteristics; lovely ripe round palate, long and balanced.
½ bottle £36.00
Bottle £70.00
32. Chablis Fourchaume 1ier Cru 2016 A.C. F.B. (Durup, Château de Maligny)
Characteristically clean-limbed Chablis from this ever reliable producer. A great vintage in Chablis; fine bright mid-gold colour; healthy zippy Chardonnay nose; good-hearted light-textured fruit on the palate, with citrus and honeyed notes; ripe but not an ounce of superfluous fat.
½ bottle £24.00
38. Macon-Lugny Les Genièvres 2016 A.C.F.B. (Louis Latour)
Characteristically deftly-made Macon from this-ever reliable negociant. Pale lemon yellow in colour; elegant young Chardonnay nose with floral and citric notes; delicious delicate Chardonnay palate.
½ Bottle £14.00

39. Meursault Vieilles Vignes 2014 D.B. (Vincent Girardin)
This fine producer has produced a lovely wine in what was a classic year for White Burgundy. Fine pale gold, with great clarity; healthy young Chardonnay on the nose; delicious cleanly made Chardonnay palate, lean and racy; the antithesis of the blousy over-oaked Meursaults so often encountered traditionally.
- ½ Bottle £36.00
61. Champagne Guy de Chassey Brut Grand Cru N.V.
Unusual among the cheaper champagnes in that the grapes come from 100% rated vineyards, and the wines are given plenty of bottle age. Truly excellent wines at the price.
- ½ Bottle £27.00
62. Champagne Delamotte Brut N.V.
Not the best-known Champagne house, but this is the sister company of the great Salon le Mesnil, and uses some of their grapes in years not thought quite up to vintage standard. This explains the wonderfully aristocratic quality of this wine; pale lemony gold, with a fine sustained mousse; nose and palate showing the elegance stemming from the 50% Chardonnay content, and with the lacy texture so characteristic of this house.
- ½ Bottle £30.00

2. Piesporter Michelsberg 2016 Mosel

Typically light and unassuming wine from this well-known village, crisp, but with typically grapey character.

Bottle £22.00

125ml £4.90 / 175ml £6.00

3. Riesling 2017 Pfalz Qualitätswin (A. Christmann)

I have not in general found it easy to like the 'Trocken' style of Rieslings, feeling that in the search for a drier wine the main glories of the Riesling grape are often submerged. This is a remarkable example, however, and quite enough to prompt a re-think. Fine buttercup gold; lovely apple-and-honey nose; the palate echoing the nose with just a hint of spritz. Really good gutsy fruit, and finishing bone dry despite a touch of honey mid-palate. Really impressive wine.

Bottle £26.00

5. Brauneberger Juffer-Sonnenuhr Riesling Kabinett 2015. Mosel Prädikatswein (Max Ferd Richter)

The wines of the Rhine, Mosel, and the surrounding valleys have become unfashionable, and therefore difficult to sell. This is a shame, as they offer wonderful value. This example is a classic Mosel, with the ripe grapiness balanced by sustained elegant acidity. Pale youthful colour; delicious honey-and-apple Riesling nose, with just a whiff of diesel; fine burst of Riesling fruit on the palate with honey and apricot notes, and delicate acidity leading to a development of 30+ seconds.

Bottle £31.50

6. Oestrich Lenchen Riesling Auslese 2003. Rheingau Q.m.P. (Peter Jakob Kühn)

The dramatically hot summer of 2003 produced many atypical wines. The Rieslings of northern Europe tended to be sweeter and lusher than usual. This Auslese has easily the weight and sweetness to qualify as a Beerenauslese in more normal vintages. Extraordinary deep old gold – almost tawny – colour; barley sugar, orange blossom, and acacia on the nose; intense palate of honey, candied peel, highlighted with delicate acidity throughout the impressively long palate.

Alsace

8. Gewürztraminer Cleebourg Cuvée Prestige 2017. D.B. (Cave Vinicole)
Alsatian wines are hard to sell in restaurants, but they are individual, delicious, and represent such good value. This is a totally authentic example of the Gewürztraminer grape; aromatic nose with hints of lychee and lemon; lots of ripe fruit on the palate, with hints of spice and a pleasing underlying austerity.
- Bottle £26.50

Red Loire

10. Saumur Champigny Lieu-dit Les Villaises 2016. D.B. (Cave de Saumur)
The red wines of the Loire are less well-known than they deserve; they are charming, distinctive and good value. This is a typical example, with vibrant deep cherry colour; lively Cabernet Franc fruit on the nose; and succulent red fruits on the palate.
SERVED AT CELLAR TEMPERATURE TO EMPHASISE ITS FRESH AND JUICY QUALITIES.
- Bottle £25.00

White Loire

12. Pouilly Fumé 'Les Charmes' 2015. D.B. (J-C Chatelain)
Delicious grassy Sauvignon (in the French style, I'm glad to say, rather than in the over-emphatic New World style). Pale gold colour, made with a touch of oak which broadens the fruit on the palate. A single vineyard wine which is strikingly delicious.
- Bottle £26.50
13. Sancerre 2017. D.B. (J-C Chatelain)
The great popularity of Sancerre has brought with it the usual surge in prices and uncertain quality. This is a beautifully made example however, with a delectable combination of freshness and fruit.
- Bottle £27.30

Dessert Loire

14. Côteaux du Layon Domaine des Hautes Brosses Vieilles Vignes 2009. D.B. (Vignoble Pin)

The dessert wines from the Loire, made from the Chenin Blanc grape, are very different in character from those of Bordeaux or the Rhine; lighter in texture, but capable of achieving great stature. This example is a rich buttery gold; fragrant floral nose with honeyed notes; assertive barley sugar palate with good balancing acidity.

Bottle £25.00

Monbazillac

15. Château Septy 2014. A.C.F.B. (Cave de Monbazillac)

Less cloying than some of the heavier dessert wines from Sauternes. Pale buttercup gold; light barley sugar nose with floral notes; intense sweet fruit on the palate, with excellent length and pleasant fruity acidity on the finish.

19. Château Carignon 2015 C.B. (Clench) Côtes de Bordeaux Cadillac
Hotter summers and ever more scrupulous wine-making have resulted in much more dependably fine wine coming from the satellite appellations in Bordeaux. This blend of 70% Merlot, 20% Cabernet Sauvignon and 10% Cabernet Franc is approachable and delicious. Solid crimson/garnet colour; healthy Merlot fruit on the nose; satisfying juicy palate, foursquare but with fair background acidity and a touch of residual tannin. Fantastic value.
½ bottle £14.00
20. Chateau Patache D'Aux 2009 Cru Bourgeois Supérieure C.B.
A vintage which seemed so generous in infancy but which has surprised me by how long it has taken to mature fully. However, many wines are now starting to drink very well. We have been listing the better vintages of this property for nearly 40 years, and as the vines age the quality has improved hugely. Fine deep garnet colour, semi mature; lovely harmonious cabernet fruit on the nose, with cassis, pepper and sweet spice notes; balanced, seamless fruit on the palate, forceful, seamless, delicious.
Bottle £35.00
23. Chateau Marsau 2014 C. B. (Chadronnier) Côtes de Bordeaux Francs
A new vintage of an old favourite. Fine deep garnet colour, just beginning to show some evolution of the rim; refined elegant Merlot dominant nose; good quality ripe healthy fruit on the palate, elegant and long with great balance.
Bottle £33.00
24. Domaine de Chevalier 2007 C. B. Pessac-Léognan Grand Cru Classe Graves
The wines of Graves can have a grace and elegance not always encountered elsewhere in the Médoc, and this has long been a favourite property of mine. Fine deep ruby, maturing at the tawny rim; restrained cabernet fruit on the nose (55% of the cepape); classically suave fruit on the palate, with more 'attack' than might have been expected, and a nice oakey finish. Young still, but delicious.
Bottle £60.00
25. Château de Fieuzal 2000 C.B Pessac
This old favourite produces classic silky Graves. From the wonderful 2000 vintage is fully mature; fine deep colour with tawny rim; exuberant Cabernet-dominant fruit on the nose, with cedary well-developed secondary characteristics; lovely ripe round palate, long and balanced.
½ bottle £36.00
Bottle £70.00
26. Château Quinault L'Enclos 2005 C.B. St. Emilion Grand Cru
St. Emilion can be a bit of a Curate's Egg Appellation, but at its best produces wonderfully generous and appealing wines. Fine deep garnet, fully mature with a narrow tawny rim; ripe Merlot-dominated nose with seductive toffee notes; mouth – filling Merlot palate with plenty of structure, background acidity and tannin, leading to a long (30 seconds +) finish.
Bottle £50.00

*102. Château Cantemerle 2009 C.B. Macau

This property is an old favourite, and has produced a typically impressive wine in this wonderful vintage. Originally classified as a 5th growth Cantemerle regularly produces better wines than this implies. Deep dense crimson ruby at the very narrow rim, solid opaque centre; fine healthy fruit on the nose, a touch closed still; packed structured fruit on the palate showing a good proportion of Merlot; seamless and meaty, with great length and balance.

Bottle £60.00

* Please note that all wines marked with an asterisk are stored in temperature controlled conditions at 14°C.

- *111. Château Pape Clement 1998 C. B. Grand Cru Classé Pessac-Léogna
Probably the finest vineyard in the Graves area after Haut Brion and La Mission, this has predictably shone in the great 1998 vintage. Fully mature deep garnet colour, with an evolved tawny rim; deep, super-healthy Merlot fruit on the nose, with sweet spices and cedary notes; dramatic concentrated fruit in the mouth, sumptuous; classic silky Graves, complete and seamless, with great complexity. For those, like Robert Parker, who like to time the development of the finish, this lasts at least 30 seconds.
Bottle £140.00

- *116. Chateau Madgdelaine 2001 C. B. Grand Cru St Emilion
Despite its relatively small production, this well-know St Emilion produces , year after year, wines that rival or outshine all but its greatest competitors, Ausone and Cheval Blanc. Dense opaque crimson still, with just a touch of tawny a t the rim; Concentrated ripe Merlot on the nose with soft tannins behind the roundness of fruit; charming juicy Merlot on the palate, with a lovely gentle acidity and integrated tannin to support the fruit. Typical 2001, seamless and totally satisfying.
Bottle £120.00

* Please note that all wines marked with an asterisk are stored in temperature controlled conditions at 14°C.

The remaining Clarets listed are too well-known to need elaborate tasting notes. No-one, after all, needs me to tell them that Latour 1982 is a spectacularly fine wine.

The past two years have seen an extraordinary rise in the prices of fine mature clarets. For example, Château Latour 1982, which was available (if you could find it) for around £4000.00 per case five years ago, has more than trebled its price to around £15,000 per case. It is therefore with the greatest reluctance that we have had to increase our prices of these wines at least somewhere closer to their replacement value.

What more can one say about the celebrated 1982 vintage? For once the trade's hyperbole was justified, and while too rich and voluptuous to be classic claret, fears by some that they would prove too pleasing to last have proved gloriously mistaken. Extraordinarily, the Mouton still needs time to show its best, in my view; while the Latour towers over the rest at present.

White Burgundy

30. Pouilly-Fuissé Les Combes Vieilles Vignes A.C. F.B. Verget 2014
For many years I avoided Pouilly-Fuissé, which following its explosion of popularity in the late 1960s seemed to me often to be overpriced relative to its quality. This restores ones faith and enthusiasm, made with all the meticulous care that this producer brings to his wines. Bright clear pale lemon yellow, water-pale at the rim; lovely honey and citrus-blossom nose, clean and elegant, but not short of fruit; classy Chardonnay on the palate, crystalline but with masses of ripe fruit behind.
Bottle £34.00
31. Chablis 2016 D.B. (Domaine Roy)
Growers in Chablis for two centuries, the Roy family have only recently begun bottling most of their own wines. Classically made steely Chablis; pale gold colour showing some evolution; fairly closed, faintly floral Chardonnay nose; impressively balanced and integrated fruit on the palate, with a long crisp, structured finish. Impressive for a generic Chablis.
Bottle £30.00
32. Chablis Fourchaume 1ier Cru 2016 A.C. F.B. (Durup, Château de Maligny)
Characteristically clean-limbed Chablis from this ever reliable producer. A great vintage in Chablis; fine bright mid-gold colour; healthy zippy Chardonnay nose; good-hearted light-textured fruit on the palate, with citrus and honeyed notes; ripe but not an ounce of superfluous fat.
½ bottle £24.00
37. St Aubin 1ièr Cru Murgers des Dents de Chien 2010 D.B. (Gérard Thomas)
A St Aubin of unusual precision and elegance. Fine clear mid-gold, still pale at the rim; clean-limbed young Chardonnay nose, floral with hints of honey behind; fine zesty fruit on the palate, lingering aftertaste of citrus and peaches.
Bottle £40.00
38. Macon-Lugny Les Genièvres 2016 A.C.F.B. (Louis Latour)
Characteristically deftly-made Macon from this-ever reliable negociant. Pale lemon yellow in colour; elegant young Chardonnay nose with floral and citric notes; delicious delicate Chardonnay palate.
½ Bottle £14.00
39. Meursault Vieilles Vignes 2014 D.B. (Vincent Girardin)
This fine producer has produced a lovely wine in what was a classic year for White Burgundy. Fine pale gold, with great clarity; healthy young Chardonnay on the nose; delicious cleanly made Chardonnay palate, lean and racy; the antithesis of the blousy over-oaked Meursaults so often encountered traditionally.
½ Bottle £36.00

Red Burgundy

41. Volnay Vieilles Vignes 2005 D. B. (Henri Delagrangre)
A wine which has shown the virtues of patience. This was a colossal vintage which has taken longer than I expected to come round; it is now fully ready, and delicious. Terrific limpid ruby colour, fully mature at the rim; elegant Pinot nose, very Beaune-y, with farmyard notes developing; fantastic Pinot palate, sweet on entry and with great force and concentration on the mid palate; long silky fruit on the finish.
Bottle £70.00
43. Bourgogne Rouge 2013 A.C. F.B. (Bertand Ambroise)
Delicious basic Burgundy from organically certified vineyards. Fine mature colour, tawny at rim, with great clarity; authentic light-weight Pinot nose; more force and concentration of ripe but elegant fruit on the palate. Terrific value for the Appellation.
Bottle £25.50
44. Savigny-les-Beaune 1ier Cru Les Narbantons 2015 A.C. F.B. (Girard)
Gorgeous southern red Burgundy from one of the finest vintages of the past ten years. Medium ruby/garnet colour; good Pinot character on the nose, with good depth and complexity, and hints of spice developing; fine concentration of Pinot fruit on entry; seamless, elegant and long.
Bottle £48.00

*144. Nuis St Georges 1ier Cru Clos de Forêts St. Georges 2002 D.B.(Domaine de l'Arlot)

As usual with this property, a wine for those 'who wish to be seduced... rather than seek hand to hand combat' in Clive Coates' ringing phrase. From one of the great vintages of the past 20 years. Good healthy colour, supremely limpid; lovely graceful evolved Pinot Nose, poised and proper, with lots of spice and farmyard notes; sweet ripe Pinot fruit on the palate, more forceful on entry than perhaps expected, lingering finish. Polished.

Bottle £80.00

* Please note that all wines marked with an asterisk are stored in temperature controlled conditions at 14°C.

Beaujolais

46. Brouilly Pisse-Vieille 2016 D.B. (Lathuidière Gravillon)

I am not a great lover of the Gamay grape, but this wine shows just how good the village wines of Beaujolais can be. Impeccably made, and from a fine vintage, this has a healthy, mature, deep colour; classic immediate Gamay fruit on the nose; and a suave and poised palate, with much more weight, breadth and balance than most Beaujolais.

Bottle £32.00

SERVED AT CELLAR TEMPERATURE TO EMPHASISE ITS FRESH AND JUICY QUALITIES.

White Rhone

50. Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc Domaine Grand Veneur 2015 D.B. (Alain Jaume)
White Rhônes are under-appreciated in Britain, which is a shame, as they are distinctive, and are frequently both well-made and excellent value. This is a delicious example; water-pale in colour; fine elegant floral-lemony nose; full and ripe on the palate, with peach and honey notes balanced by excellent acidity, and a long nutty finish. Really fine wine.

Bottle £47.50

Red Rhone

51. Côtes du Rhône Résèrve Grand Veneur 2017 A.C. F.B. (Alain Jaune)
From the makers of one of the most succulent Châteauneuf du Papes, this might almost be the grand vin itself. Deep crimson colour; rich spicy fruit on the nose; wonderfully ripe and healthy fruit on the palate, with lots of Grenache; acid and soft tannin to balance. Fantastic wine at the price

Bottle £24.00

52. Chateauneuf-du-Pape 2016 Roc Épine D.B. (Domaine Lafond)
A Grenache-dominated cépage giving open textures and a juicy character. Big deep crimson colour just beginning to show some evolution; rich spicy southern fruit on the nose; a palate of great force and concentration, held in balance by good background acidity and soft tannins. Sumptuous stuff.

Bottle £47.00

53. Crozes-Hermitage 2010 D.B. (Yann Chave)
A monumental vintage in the Northern Rhône, and Chave makes “serious” wines that need ageing. Huge dense crimson-purple in colour, just beginning to evolve at the rim; massive über-ripe peppery Syrah nose; similarly monumental Syrah palate, very ripe and concentrated with structure, tingling background acidity, some residual tannin. Very long and complex. Terrific wine; one has tasted less impressive wines from the Hermitage itself.

Bottle £30.00

54. Gigondas Domaine des Capes 2015 D.B. (Laure Daniel)
Fine mature southern Rhone, made from the classic varieties Grenache / Syrah / Mourvèdre. Deep plum/ crimson colour, showing a little evolution at the rim; ripe classy fruit on the nose, with deep, almost prune-like notes; terrific seamless fruit on palate, with plenty of soft tannins to balance. Classy for the Appellation.

Bottle £28.00

Red Rhone

*150. Côte Rôtie 2005. D.B. (Rostaing)

The syrah-based wines of the Côte Rôtie age into the most gloriously gracious and complex wines. This is surprisingly youthful in colour, still semi-opaque, just softening at the rim; ripe, round, slightly toasted Syrah fruit on the nose, very restrained and suave; fantastic mouthful of concentrated plum and cherry flavours, seamless, and with a fine thread of acidity throughout the palate. Almost endless development in the mouth.

Bottle £60.00

*152. Château de Beaucastel 1999 Châteauneuf-du-Pape D.B. (Perrin)

The Perrin family make a point of using all thirteen of the permitted grape varieties in their celebrated Châteauneuf, varying the proportions according to the nature of the vintage. Typically a wine of great longevity, this is just coming to maturity. Deep ruby colour with a narrow tawny rim; initially a little reticent on the nose, but opening out into an opulent bouquet of spices, herbs and (amazingly) treacle; palate of great presence, with juicy Grenache on the surface, with serious weight and complexity behind. Classic Beaucastel with richness and restraint, charm and seriousness.

Bottle £75.00

*154. Château de Beaucastel 1995 Châteauneuf-du-Pape D.B. (Perrin)

One of the finer vintages from the first half of the '90's, and now fully mature. All the Beaucastel hallmarks of density, complexity, power and finesse.

Magnum £130.00

*155. Hermitage Marquise de la Tourette 2005 A.C. F.B (Delas)

Lovely northern Rhone, Syrah-based, now entering early maturity. Bright dark cherry/crimson colour, softening at the rim; huge nose of dark fruits and spices, bursting with health; colossal palette of rich ripe Syrah fruit, with great concentration and length, with sustained delicate acidity on the back plate. Delicious.

Bottle £60.00

* Please note that all wines marked with an asterisk are stored in temperature controlled conditions at 14°C.

French Country Wines

White

55. Terre de Lumière Viognier 2017 Pays d'Oc

The problematic and intriguing Viognier grape used to be virtually confined to a small area of the northern Rhône, where it was made into the fine but exorbitant white wines of Condrieu. Now it is fashionable, and grown widely, not only in Southern France, but in the New World. It is usually at its best relatively young, to preserve its freshness. This is a terrific example; lemony gold in colour; peach fruit aromas reaching out of the glass; deep but focussed fruit flavours on the palate, given a lovely life by a lemony acidity on the finish. Terrific wine at the price.

Bottle £20.00

Pink

57. Rosé Les Oliviers 2017 Domaine de Montaubéron. Vin de Pays Côtes de Thongue. 3 D.B. (de Berlier)

Provence is in many ways the spiritual home of rosé, and this is a distinctly classy example, made from 100% Syrah, and exhibiting none of the dispiriting flabbiness so often encountered. Deep salmon pink in colour; ripe floral fruit on the nose; good assertive fruit on the palate, wonderfully clean-limbed, and with great balance and length.

58. Chateau de Saint-Sériès Vieilles Vignes 2015. Côteaux du Languedoc. A.C. F.B. (Roux)
A fantastic Côteaux du Languedoc from one of the biggest producers in the Côte d'Or. A blend of Syrah and Granache, this has a fine deep colour, harmonious fruit on the nose, and a really suave and gracious palate, much classier than many wines from the Appellation.

Bottle £26.00

59. Merlot Domaine St Estève 2017 Vin de Pays d'Oc.

Typically robust and gutsy merlot from provence. Big, purple-tinged colour, ripe and concentrated fruit on the nose and palate. Uncomplicated, but with enough acidity and soft tannin to avoid jamminess.

Bottle £20.00

Sparkling Wines

60. Corney & Barrow Blanc de Blancs Méthode Champenoise. F.B. (Varichon et Clerc)
A beautifully made wine, which shows how much better some of the regionally made sparkling wines can be than some of the cruder examples from the sacred Appellation of Champagne. Pale gold, fine even mousse; good fruit on the nose; clean, light, and crisp in the mouth, but with plenty of ripe fruit. Excellent all-round wine.
Bottle £27.50
69. Adnams Selection Prosecco D.O.C. Treviso
Made from the Glera grape by the Ceschin family in the Veneto region of Italy. A cheerful everyday fizz with fresh, crisp flavours.
Bottle £25.00
61. Champagne Guy de Chassey Brut Grand Cru N.V.
Unusual among the cheaper champagnes in that the grapes come from 100% rated vineyards, and the wines are given plenty of bottle age. Truly excellent wines at the price.
Bottle £50.00
Half Bottle £27.00
62. Champagne Delamotte Brut N.V.
Not the best-known Champagne house, but this is the sister company of the great Salon le Mesnil, and uses some of their grapes in years not thought quite up to vintage standard. This explains the wonderfully aristocratic quality of this wine; pale lemony gold, with a fine sustained mousse; nose and palate showing the elegance stemming from the 50% Chardonnay content, and with the lacy texture so characteristic of this house.
Bottle £54.00
Half Bottle £30.00
63. Champagne Pol Roger Réserve Brut N.V. White Capside
Pol Roger was reputedly the favourite of that heroic drinker of champagne, Sir Winston Churchill; and the wine itself is built on an heroic scale. Explosion of brioche nose as it is opened; fine even mousse; and a huge ripe Pinot-dominated palate. The recent collapse of the pound against the euro has played havoc with the price, sadly; but que faire?
Bottle £65.00
66. Tattinger Brut 2002
This makes a wonderfully interesting contrast to the Delamotte Blanc de Blancs listed next. From the same stellar vintage, this is an object lesson in successful blending of the Pinots (Noir and Meunier) with Chardonnay. The result is a much broader, more structured wine than the pure Chardonnay; pronounced brioche nose; more ostensibly ripe in the mouth; with effortless balance and presence and with ample staying power to accompany quite emphatic food flavours. Made with the restraint and elegance so typical of this renowned Champagne House, and with only 12% alcohol, it treads lightly.
Bottle £75.00

67. Delamotte Blanc de Blancs 2002

One of the greatest vintages for Champagne, the 2002 is certainly at least the equal of the legendary 1996, 1982 and 1969 vintages. Delamotte, not the best known Champagne name, is the sister house to the celebrated Salon le Mesnil, and benefits from the same Grand Cru grapes and obsessive search for the highest standards of wine making. Very pale gold, just beginning to acquire a richer hue; very fine persistent mousse; delicate floral Chardonnay nose, a little shy still, with good autolytic 'brioche' character; bone dry on the palate, elegant, but with a profound steely core. Graceful and delicious, with that unmistakable lacy texture of top Blanc de Blancs. Colossally long finish.

Bottle £75.00

Sparkling Rosé

64. Drappier Val des Demoiselles Rosé Brut N.V.

A distinguished rosé with plenty of bottle age, classy palate, and the classic oeil de perdrix colour.

70. Pinot Grigio delle Venezie 2017. I.G.T. (Cecilia Beretta)
A grape variety which can often appear a bit dull and one dimensional; but this is a most pleasing example at a very good price. Medium gold colour; appealing grapey, almost Muscat-y nose; fine concentrated zippy fruit on the palate.
Bottle £25.00
125ml £5.30 / 175ml £6.50
71. Valpolicella Ripasso Superiore 2015 D.O.C. (Cecilia Beretta)
Made by the 'ripasso' method, which involves a secondary fermentation on the lees of the famous amarone wines of the Veneto. This, and extra barrel maturation give a wine with much more depth and complexity than most red wines of the region. Deep velvety crimson colour; spicy, many-layered fruit on the nose, ripe, bold fruit on the palate, good acidity throughout the sustained palate
Bottle £31.50
72. Chianti Classico Riecine 2017 D.O.C.G.
From a great vintage in northern Italy, this wine received top mark in a comparative tasting run by Decanter Magazine some years ago. Cherry-garnet colour, with a narrow tawny rim, good legs and great clarity. Highly aromatic as it is poured, it develops a wonderfully succulent plummy nose in the glass; great concentration of typical Sangiovese fruit in the mouth, ripe and rich with plenty of tannin and acid to balance. Seriously good Chianti.
Bottle £35.00
73. Barolo 2013 D.O. C.G. (Manfredi)
It is such a shame that Barolo has become so expensive, as it can produce wines of wonderful subtlety, complexity and stature. This has a clear, healthy medium deep garnet colour; deep, austere Nebbiolo on the nose with just a touch of toffee; and great intensity of Nebbiolo on the palate, ripe but with lots of soft tannin and acidity to balance. Very long, very delicious.
Bottle £42.00

*171. Passopisciaro 2007 I.G.T. E.B. (Tenuta di Passopisciaro)

If anyone had told me ten years ago that I would be listing a Sicilian wine, let alone one as expensive as this, I would have been extremely sceptical. This just goes to show how much things have changed (and how ignorant I was). This wine is a serious knockout. Made from the indigenous Nerello variety on the slopes of Mount Etna, a wine with real personality. Fine mature crimson in colour; an explosion of aromatic fruit as the cork is pulled, with huge, dense, almost porty nose; sweet and ripe on the palate, tempered by sustained acidity; soft, but very long and concentrated, with a hint of black cherries in mid-palate and an attractive touch of bitterness on the finish.

Bottle £50.00

*172. Brunello di Montalcino Abbadia Ardenza 2008 D.O.C.G. D.B.

This famous wine has suffered a slightly clouded reputation recently, with dark hints of adulteration, particularly in America. There is nothing wrong with this deeply impressive wine, recommended in a recent comparative tasting, run by Decanter Magazine. Deep ruby colour, opaque at centre; lively juicy fruit on the nose with hints of fruit cake and pepper; huge chewy fruit on the palate, with great concentration and ripeness, balanced with good acidity and background tannin.

Bottle £55.00

75. Rioja Belezos 2015 D.O.C. Estate Bottled (Bodegas Zugober)

Nice and juicy uncomplicated Rioja. Good deep scarlet just maturing at the rim; healthy plum-and-cassis fruit on the nose; good gutsy Tempranillo character on the palate, with nice oaky notes.

Bottle £27.00
125ml £5.40 / 175ml £6.70

76. Rioja Faustino I Gran Reserva 2005 D.O.C.G.

Gran Reservas represent the pinnacle of quality in Rioja. With the extra aging requirements (two years in cask and three in bottle) they are only made in the very best vintages. This example is just entering maturity; dense garnet colour, narrow tawny rim, lovely rich Tempranillo nose with hints of leather, toffee, spice; intense berry fruit on the palate, very juicy and more youthful than expected, long and balanced in the mouth.

Bottle £35.00

77. Psi 2013 Ribera del Duero D. de O.

Wonderfully polished wine from the great Peter Sisseck. Made from grapes from small scattered plantings of old vine Tempranillo, it shows all the skill and care that goes into the great, but very expensive, Pingus. Deep maturing crimson, pale at rim but good-hearted centre; deep, restrained fruit on the nose, quite complex; really impressive fruit on the palate, good acidity and a touch of residual tannin, fine grained ripe fruit, long and complex.

- *181. Achaval Ferrer Quimera Malbec-Cabernet-Merlot 2014. Mendoza. D.B.
(Florida del Tupungato)

This spectacular wine is made from high altitude old vines – up to 90 years; giving a wine of extraordinary concentration. Approximately equal proportions of the three different varieties, yielding a huge dense purple-crimson colour; a distinctively inky Malbec nose; with the deepest, ripest fruit on a palate which starts with Malbec and then broadens out. Hugely ripe and concentrated, with a long intense finish.

80. Apaltagua Chardonnay Reserva 2017. Casablanca Valley

The New World in general, and South America in particular, is producing better and better wines. This, despite its formidable alcoholic content, is lightly textured and elegant; clean and balanced chardonnay, with fine-boned structure and peachy notes on the finish.

Bottle £26.00

81. Agua Santa Pinot Noir 2018 Edwards Family Vineyards Colchagua Costa

Much more Burgundian in style than many American Pinots, lacking the pronounced raspberry notes so often encountered. Clear pale garnet in colour; modest but elegant Pinot on the nose; good sustained well-structured fruit on the palate, with plenty of acidity and good balance. It could easily have come from the Côtes de Beaune.

82. Cuvaison Estate Grown Chardonnay 2014. Carneros, Napa Valley

I have not in general been a great admirer of Californian wines. While of course there are many splendid examples, the best tend to be stratospherically priced, while those at more accessible prices have seemed to me rather one-dimensional, with a superabundance of fruit, alcohol and oak. This wine is a delightful - to me – surprise. Fine pale lemon-gold in colour, with great limpidity; delicate floral Chardonnay on the nose, with subdued buttery notes behind; very complete classic Chardonnay palate, ripe and rich but supremely elegant and balanced, with delicate acidity, peaches and apricot kernels in the make up. A lovely long suave mouthful.

83. Ana Sauvignon Blanc 2017 Malborough

This wine, while avoiding the cliché 'Tropical fruit salad' style of many (rather overstated in my view) Malborough Sauvignon has delicious crisp gooseberry / grapefruit notes on nose and plate. Elegant and clearly made.

Bottle £26.00

84. Kumeu River Chardonnay 2014. Estate bottled.

This Estate produces (pace the Australians and Californians) the best New World Chardonnay I have yet tasted, or at least the one I personally most enjoy. Clear buttercup gold; restrained but complex Chardonnay nose, rich and peach-kernelly, with hints of something more exotic; and a wonderful mouthful of fruit, sweet and ripe, but with a faintly citric backbone providing real elegance. Excellent length and balance; wonderful wine. It is not cheap, but is more than good value.

86. The Southerly Shiraz 2016 S. E. Australia

I have not in general been a great admirer of Australian Shiraz, which seems all too often to want to bludgeon the drinker into submission. This example thus came as a pleasant surprise. Bright cherry colour; plum and spice on the nose, with a hint of plum kernels; uncomplicated juicy fruit on the palate, soft, appealing, well-balanced.

Hine Fine Champagne Vintage Cognac.

Selection Denis Hine.

I have always admired Hine's cognacs, which are supremely elegant, and rely on quality of fruit and great technical skill rather than the over-sweet caramely productions one so frequently encounters. This particular cognac is not available commercially, being made especially for the late lamented Denis Hine, and made available to me by the courtesy and generosity of his widow, Baba Hine, of the Corse Lawn Hotel in Gloucestershire.
